

MAIJA

Maija (DiGiorgio) - This powerhouse of comedy has taken the world by storm, with two wildly popular Amazon Prime specials (“Maija Pinion” and “Maija! Maija! Maija!”) and the Dry Bar Comedy special that has up to a staggering 10 MILLION views. In her first year of stand-up, Maija filmed five national TV appearances, flipping a booing crowd at the Apollo Theater into a standing ovation and then making a legendary mark on HBO’s Def Comedy Jam. She has been hailed as “fantastic” by Dave Chappelle and a “fking star!” by Bill Burr.

Maija has had numerous appearances from headlining on the Las Vegas strip to appearances at the Netflix is a Joke Festival, Essence Fest, NBC Comics Unleashed, three BET Comic Views, Sex and the City, Hot 97 Radio, Prime Video’s Discontinued, Soapstone Comedy in the Meta Verse and more.

Maija’s comedy can bridge any divide. With a multicultural and multidimensional energy fueled by her roots in music, theater, and film, Maija commands the crowd like few others can. She is a triple threat.

Maija has developed her reputation as an enthralling comedic performer and outside of standup, she is also a notably well-rounded entertainer. Influenced by her mother Sylvia Copeland, renowned concert vocalist and piano prodigy, and Uncle Henry Le Tang a Tony Award Winning choreographer, Maija has always channeled her work through a variety of artistic mediums. Her one-woman, Shakespearean play “RATS!” consists of six modernized Shakespeare’s wrapping in music, humor and tap. She directed the critically acclaimed film “Bitter Jester,” which received rave reviews from Variety and The New York Times. Maija had also established herself as a radio personality co-hosting on the number one Hip Hop station, the legendary Hot 97’s “The Morning Show with Ed and Maija.”
